TRAGEDIES ARE REVEALED BY COMPENSATION LAW

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—"Thousands of tragedies arising out of the World War were brought to light by the passage of the Adjusted Compensation Law," declared an official at the National Headquarters of the American Legion here. The official explained:

"I refer to those tragedies involved where veterans have chosen to disappear since returning safely from France, rather than to every day to the old associations, their disappointed hopes, their restless spirits, their disfigured bodies. The compensation law reveals the cases of thousands of such 'missing' men whose families cannot collect their compensation benefits under the ruling which states that dependents of veterans must submit evidence of the veteran's death."

"The official records in the Army and Navy Departments report these men as 'missing.' Records are not discerning. Most of the veterans listed as 'missing' are as dead to their families and old associations, as if their bodies lay unidentified in France."

"Somewhere in the past, of these missing men still lives, it is true, but their spirit is broken or has taken hopeless flight like a bird with a broken wing, flapping frightened from one gray obscurity to the next, there to hide, hurt and quivering, hoping that man will not step on it, not injure it further while it awaits for death as a relief. But the Government compensates only on a death certificate. Broken and crushed spirits are not compensative."

"Take just one case that comes to mind. In the hellish days of 1917 a young girl said goodbye and gave a promise of faithfulness to a handsome boy. The evening events were not unimportant. France, St. Mihiel, a poet of whirling shrapnel, a mangled riot of blood and tears; then the return home with all that was left of the plashing features smashed and horrible and not less horrible when placed together by the clumsy hands of man. The girl had been faithful. Then the meeting, and the soldier's twisted figure that comforted her a hollow, leveling grimace when it had meant to smile the tenderness in the boy's heart; then the girl's involuntary reaction from that loathsome thing. The man noted the horror reflected in the girl's eyes and the averted face. He hastily mumbled goodbye as he stumbled through the garden. The boy has never returned."

"On the records of the war department that boy is listed as 'missing.' As a missing veteran his compensation cannot be paid his people until he is proven dead, or unless he returns to claim it. He will never return to face the constant pity and sympathy of those he had loved. His case is similar to the tragedies of thousands of other veterans, slung with the load of war in one form or another, and who will in all probability wander until the end, never home."

LONDON—Colonel H. D. Lindsay, past National Commander of the American Legion upon his arrival in London recently addressed members of the British Legion on the fraternity existing between the British and American Legions. He declared: "The greatest lesson I derived from the war is that bond of sympathy which has sprung up between the men in England and the United States who actually fought in the war. These two big bodies of war veterans, spread as they are throughout the towns and villages of the two countries, will be able to do more towards a general peace than anything else. The League of Nations, in my opinion, will not become more than the forum from which the inspirations of peace will be voiced."

LORAIN, Ohio.—Relief for the victims of the recent tornado disaster here is being extended by the Ohio Department of The American Legion working through the agency of the local post.

Legionnaires of Lorain and Elgin were active immediately after the disaster in searching for bodies, salvaging valuables and relieving distress wherever it was found.

A bulletin has been issued from the Ohio Department Headquarters of the Legion requesting that all Legion posts and Auxiliary units in the state contribute money, clothing, provisions and to advise the public to the relief of Lorain.

HILA, Hawaii.—The high schools of Hila, which heretofore have been without directed physical education will be provided with expert instruction from the United States largely due to the action of The American Legion here.

It was recently called to the attention of The American Legion by the Marine Ken Athletic Council, Samuel Woods, Commissioner of West Hawaii, and W. E. Gilvens, Superintendent of the Board of Education, that supervised physical education was needed in Hila high schools. The Legion at once enlisted its aid in the project with the result that the coming year will find husky Americans directing the youth of Hila in their "daily downs."

BOSTON, Mass.—According to the report of legislative committee of The American Legion, Department of Massachusetts, it cost the department just one dollar for lobby expenses in support of a bill for compensation of the state legislature.

BOSTON, Mass.—An Aeronautical Committee of The American Legion was recently formed here by Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Commander of The American Legion, Department of Massachusetts, and Capt. Louis R. Knight, army air officer for New England, for the purpose of making Boston the leading airport on the Atlantic Coast. In connection with the postal air mail program which was recently put into effect, Gen. Edwards stated, "The safety of the nation must be met by the development of commercial aircraft, complete overnight to the purposes of military defense. You cannot distinguish between peace and wartime air strength. The American Legion every body private of us is going to get behind this movement in which the civilization's chief hope for the future—aircraft."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The American Legion Commission from National Headquarters of The American Legion announces that a sufficient number of state boards of education have considered favorably the Commission's plan to add the study of flag etiquette to the curriculum of public schools, to assure the plan being adopted nationally within the coming year. "The state of Texas was the first state to adopt the official flag etiquette advocated by the Legion, the code is being printed in all future prints of civics books used in Texas schools. At this date there are twenty-four states signifying their intention of incorporating flag etiquette in the public school curriculum."

LONDON—General John J. Pershing, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, and Colonel John D. Marley, Commander of The American Legion of Maryland, recently arrived members of the American Battle Monuments Commission, authorized by Congress to set up appropriate memorials in American cemeteries where World War veterans are buried, sought diversion recently by attending a house ball game between the London Post of The American Legion team and the U. S. K. Levitt team. The Commission's coming to England is in connection with the American cemetery at Brookwood where 431 United States veterans are buried.

WATERTOWN, N. Y.—The dates of Sept. 4, 5, and 6 have been set by the state officers of The American Legion for the state convention to be held at Alexandria Bay. Invitations have been extended to Gen. John J. Pershing, Admiral Phibbs, Admiral Robert Coetz and other high officials to attend the convention.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS NOTES

J. R. GUNN

Get your strawberry plants set as soon as possible now while the soil is thoroughly wet and the weather is not as hot as it is liable to be during the latter part of this month and August. It is a very important part of berry growing to raise your own plants if possible to do so, as you can then plant any time you are ready and when the weather is right this fall and not have to wait to get them in by express from some other section or even transport them from some one's place some distance from yours. Then, too, plants may be short this fall and you will have trouble finding what you will need.

The Grape Growers' meeting in Lakeland last week was a great success, in every way and showed very clearly that grapes can be grown in this state if we only get the right varieties and grow them on the proper types of soil.

From the number of farmers that are preparing and planting seed-beds we are going to have a large acreage of vegetables in the county this fall.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION ADVOCATED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON—Compulsory education, if necessary, controlled and supported by the states under the guidance of the federal government, was advocated by President Coolidge, speaking before 15,000 delegates of the National Education Association at the concluding session of their national convention on the 14th of July.

The administration has proposed in the government reorganization plan a department of education and relief to be presided over by a cabinet officer, the president retorted, the teachers in reference to their demands for a cabinet member on education. This plan, however, had his endorsement, he added.

Referring to any discussion of the political situation he emphasized the importance of education to Americans and lauded the teaching profession.

"Ignorance," the president declared, "is the most fruitful source of poverty, vice and crime and it is easy to realize the necessity for removing what is a menace, not only to our social well-being, but to the very existence of the republic."

In this connection he reminded the delegates there were 3,000,000 native illiterates in this country as well as 14,000,000 foreign illiterate white persons.

Greater attention to rural schools was urged by the president.

"It is necessary," he added, "that education should be the handmaid of citizenship. Our institutions are constantly and very properly the subject of critical inquiry. On this day, of all days, it ought to be made clear that America has had its revolution and placed the power of government squarely, securely and entirely in the hands of the people. For all changes which they may desire, for all grievances which they may suffer, the ballot box furnishes a complete method and remedy. Everyone ought to realize that the sole source of national wealth is thrift and industry, and that the sole supply of the public treasury is the toil of the people."

"Another element must be secured in the training of citizenship or all else will be vain. All of our bearing and sense, our culture and our arts, will be of little avail unless they are supported by high character; unless there be honor, truth and justice; unless our material resources are supported by spiritual resources; unless there is foundation for progress. A trained intelligence can do much but unless there is morality, character and religious convictions, it will come to naught."

"Honesty and jealousy with their attendant vice and crime still hold forth to keep us from complete freedom; but we are striving to the end that freedom may be had by all."

"There must be a certain amount of immigration to this country and we must watch and work to prevent any lowering of our national intelligence; else America will not be America. We have submitted an amendment to the constitution designed to protect the child life of the nation; to prevent any unwarranted imposition of toll, that it may have greater opportunity for enlightenment. All these are directed toward increased national freedom and an advance to a realization of the vision of Washington and Lincoln."

than has been planted in some time if not the largest of all years. This shows that we can make a success of trucking as the farmers would not continue planting if it was not a success. The larger acreage we have the more we will realize from our crops as we will then be able to ship in car load lots and avoid the high express rates. Plant all you can possibly care for and lay up for the late shipments. Let's double our shipments over last fall's shipments at least. Every car shipped last fall showed a good profit to the growers. Keep a close watch on the grove for scale and rust-mite and let the grass grow for a while now. If you have to fertilize get put it on and let the rains put it into the soil for you. This will be much better than plowing this late in the season.

White Indians Arrive In New York

Here are shown three white Indian children of Panama with Richard O. Marsh of New York, who discovered the tribe of 400 in the San Blas country of Panama. The children failed to be impressed with anything they saw in the wonder city of civilization, New York.

WHITE INDIANS IN LOST TRIBE OF PANAMA BUT WHAT MAKES THEM WHITE, NOW QUESTION

AMERICAN EXPLORER BRINGS NEW PEOPLE FROM SAN BLAS COUNTRY WHICH STARTS SCIENTIFIC DISCUSSION

Written specially for The Tribune. By ROBERT FULLER

NEW YORK, July 17.—Yes. We have white Indians.

The question now, however, is: "What makes them white?"

Most of the leading scientists in the United States are discussing the subject, poking, prodding, twisting ears and looking down the throats of three homeless little tots in New York brought here by Richard O. Marsh, American explorer, who last summer discovered a tribe of 400 in the San Blas country of Panama.

Brought from the jungle where they were no clothes, garbed in civilization's modern dress and thrown suddenly into the world's largest city—the three children, Chepu, Olo, and Margaret submit to a critical examination without seemingly a flicker of feeling passing across their solid countenances, beneath cheeks of bristling tow-colored hair.

The children are not alone. Older members of the tribe and parents were brought along—safe return to their Darien region of the Panama being assured and guaranteed. Most of the older members are of brown skins and of normal Indian characteristics.

It was at first thought that Mr. Marsh had brought a group of stray aborigines out of the forests of Panama and was calling them white Indians. After a critical examination by a large group of our best scientists it was agreed that they were white Indians—but abnormal and pathological cases.

Explorer Tells How Tribe Was Found

Mr. Marsh described how he first saw white Indians in Panama last summer and determined to return with a properly equipped expedition. He told how he approached the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, the Museum of Natural History here and the University of Rochester in order that they might send representatives on the expedition, so that its results would obtain the confidence of the scientific world.

These representatives were present when he left New York last January, and when he got to Panama or additional observers from the United States Army, the Panama Canal Zone Government and the Republic of Panama.

He told of the march to the interior in which great difficulties were overcome. Before the trip ended almost the entire party had been taken seriously ill, and two members, the representative of the Smithsonian Institution and the Republic of Panama, died of fever.

It was not until the very end of the trip he said, that any white Indians were seen because the rumor had preceded the party that its object was to take such Indians into captivity and bring them away.

Finally, after making friends with an Indian chief of a coastal tribe, and curing him and many others of various ills, he got the opportunity to win the friendship of all the tribes of the region by stamping out two epidemics of smallpox.

Then he was allowed to see the white Indians whose presence had always been denied. He persuaded the native chiefs that their difficulties would be solved if a kinship could be established between the white Indians and the white people of the north. He saw about 400 of these Indians of all ages and photographed about a hundred of them.

Discovery Valuable Aid to Medicine

One scientist is of the opinion that the condition under which white Indians are produced is by leucoderma. He is Dr. Cathbert Christy, of the Smithsonian Institution, and an expert on tropical diseases. He has made a thorough examination of the white Indian children.

"I believe Mr. Marsh has made a great discovery," he said. "But not so much in the field of anthropology as in the field of tropical medicine. There is an interesting disease especially prevalent in the West Indies which is known as leucoderma. When I examined these children I found markings on them more symmetrical than those you observe in the West Indian cases."

"If we could get a commission here to investigate these cases I think it would lead to important results. There has never been any success at getting at the cause of the disease from the West Indian cases, and it has been tried repeatedly. But with these observations localized as they are, it seems to me there may be hope of finding the cause and devising a cure."

This trip from their native jungles to the very heart of civilization means little to the three little white Indians. They are, perhaps, the luckiest children in the world. And quite the most bewildered.

"The little girl had worn clothes, but neither of the boys had ever worn

Florida Editors Receive Estate Donated by Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Haines

ALAMONTE SPRINGS SCENE OF LARGE GATHERING WHEN FOURTH ESTATE GETS GIFT

Former New York Congressman, Now Florida Citizen, Finds Home for Aged and Infirm Newspapermen Which Will Be Further Endowed Later to Make It Great National Institution.

By JACK HUGHES

ORLANDO, July 14.—Gratifying a lifelong yearning to be "associated with the men of the fourth estate," and an attachment "since boyhood" days for the newspaper profession, Charles D. Haines, former New York State Congressman, distinguished himself Monday when he donated to the Florida newspapermen's association a beautiful lakeside estate of rolling woodland, orange groves and shaded lanes at Alamo Springs as a home for weary journalists.

This is to be a home, not a poor house, where all the atmosphere of life and it shall ever flourish, and where the underpaid scribes can find an abode to their liking after giving so much for so little, compared with the effort expended.

In his short talk before the seventy-five newspaper men of the state, Mr. Haines explained his motives.

"From the time I was just a boy," the Congressman explained, "I have had a long longing to be associated with men of the fourth estate, but long ago I realized that I could not write in the manner that newspapermen do write, and yet my attachment for the profession continued.

"Newspaper men have been the ones who have given much to the world and have received but small recompense. They have given the best that was in them and settled in charitable institutions but I have not wanted to give a poor house or charitable institution but I have wanted them to have a home when they were tired where they might come and be happy. It is my desire that they might have golf links and tennis courts and plenty of land in which to enjoy themselves.

"For that reason I am giving the Florida Newspaper Men's Association twenty acres of young groves extending off to the east from this house and twenty more acres off in the valley. And for Mrs. Haines I give you this club house with the theater which has been erected with twenty-five acres of land around it. With this and the check for $10,000 which I am giving your chairman today I hope that the project can be started.

Rest Retained Only For Lifetime

"Although there has been some advice to the contrary I am giving you this land, the home and land without any strings attached. I want you to take it and make of it what you can. It has been said that the project should be a national undertaking. I believe it should be, although I feel that Alamo Springs and Florida is the most ideal spot for this home to be established.

"The rest of the Haines estate and the buildings which are now on it I ask you to let Mrs. Haines and me retain until the ends of our lives, which I hope you will then take over and make a real home for the retired and working newspaper men of this country.

"I have $100,000 in gift edge bonds and check which I intend to have you use for the home when it is established. It is now giving an income of $6,000 and from all indications will continue to do so.

"That money with approximately 700 acres extending off to the distance is for the use of the home which will be known as the Florida National Newspaper Men's Home."

Introduces Mrs. Haines.

Following his speech, Congressman Haines called his wife to the front of the theatre where she was greeted by every man present.

Major Barnett, of Oakland of the First Presbyterian church, took charge of the meeting while Chairman Hosmer conferred with association committee on the by-laws for the new home.

"There are three things that impress me in the speech and the action of Congressman Haines," he said, "I have known Mr. and Mrs. Haines for more than twenty years and lived with Mr. Haines almost as a brother throughout the major part of this time.

"In all this time together I have learned one true fact. Mr. Haines has the vision of genius. He sees more clearly than any number of the association present, the value of what he has done today. He has simply won the award and yet he can visualize the tree that will spring from his work more clearly than we do who are to profit by it.

"None of us can fully appreciate the act which he has just done. The first thing that impresses is the material which he has given. Who in Florida has stood before and calmly given away his home, who has given $10,000 as though he did not realize that he was giving, who has given young grove land that will in time be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"Mr. Haines has done this and said he preferred that there be no strings attached to it. He has given it and thanked us for accepting it. The very magnitude of the gift is astounding.

With No Thought of Reward

"But an even more impressive thing about today's giving is the spirit which has prompted both the act of Mr. and Mrs. Haines. They are giving without thought of reward, without thought of personal return; they are giving for the good of men they esteem and men they would like to see given comfort.

"And the third thing that impresses me is the wisdom of the gift. They have chosen a group, that though they have been said to be the powers behind the throne, have never been cared for by any philanthropists. They have chosen the Newspaper Men's Association which includes the men of widest vision and greatest powers in the country today. They have chosen to give to men who are not down and outers, but who are worth while and who will always be of worth to any community.

"These three things impress me more than anything else in the happenings of the day. To think that they are opening this road for every state in the union to unite in this work is a tremendous thing."

Major Barnett was followed in his address by a short talk from J. C. Sellers of the Florida Times-Union, who stressed the idealism and the vision of a man and woman who could give philanthropy as the Haineses are living.

The session before the club lake served by the congressman was concluded by miscellaneous addresses from representatives of the various state papers including Rube Allen, H. H. Brown and Clarence Woods. The work for inland waterways, and the suggestion that Rollins College be partially connected through a school of journalism with the Haines project was suggested by speakers before the morning session closed.

The afternoon session was devoted to the formulation of by-laws and statistical details incident to the launching of the enterprise.

More than 100 guests from the best known newspapers in Florida sat down to clams, fish, chicken, sweet and white potatoes, corn and lobster, all roasted in the same pit from four o'clock Monday morning until four Monday afternoon.

Gifts planned for future will bring total to nearly $1,000,000 given by Mr. and Mrs. Haines.

George E. Hosmer of the Fort Myers Daily Press was made president of the executive board. Vice-presidents Willis Hall, Jacksonville Times-Union; Frank Newman, Miami Herald; John H. Perry, Pensacola Journal and Jacksonville Journal. Perry is president of the American Press Association; secretary H. M. Holly, Sanford, Florida; Treasurer, John C. Lechner, Clermont. These are also members of the board of directors, with the following additional members: Hiram Powers, Winter Park; W. C. Essington, Orlando Morning Sentinel; J. C. Krosser, Orlando Reporter Star; Harry Brown, Lakeland Star Telegram; Col. D. R. McKay, Tampa Times; Chas. D. Haines, P. A. Voss Agnew, Winter Park; Maj. A. E. Barnett, Winter Garden Herald; S. J. Triplett, Narcoossee.

More than one hundred of the representative newspaper men and women of Florida on Monday attended the informal ceremonies which marked the taking over by the Florida Newspapermen's Association of the gift of approximately a thousand acres of land and $10,000 in money from Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Haines of Alamo Springs.

Monday afternoon the guests assembled in the Jasmine theatre on the Haines estate, which with its grounds of some twenty acres is a part of Mrs. Haines' gift, and a thirty minute concert was played by the Jasmine orchestra of five ladies. George E. Hosmer of the Fort Myers Daily Press acted as chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Hosmer announced that the charter of the corporation, which reads "not for profit" had been approved. He stated that the project for which it is formed is better known and appreciated in every other state in the union than in Florida, and mentioned the recognition it had been accorded by the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in all the great southern papers.

Mr. Haines, called to the platform, was given an oration which lasted for some time. During a life which has witnessed his ownership of three daily and eight weekly newspapers, Mr. Haines had always cherished the idea of doing something, as he stated, "for those who never do anything for themselves."

themselves, who give their brains, energy, time and lives for the service of their communities." In no sense a charity project, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Haines will in the end mean an institution which shall provide a home for all the newspaper fraternity who seek it, and it will be self-supporting. Already inquiries concerning the matter have been received from Canada and from England and what promised at first to be a national in scope is already taking on international proportions.

Later, $100,000 in guaranteed stocks bearing six per cent, will be turned over to the project, the $10,000 given Monday being merely for preliminary expenses. Twenty acres in the town of Alamo Springs was a part of the gift of Monday. The "home place," where Mr. and Mrs. Haines reside, will eventually be turned over to the cause. Against some protest on the part of the recipients of this magnificent generosity, Mr. and Mrs. Haines insisted upon this being an outright gift, with no contingencies whatever attached.

Plans already under way will make this heritage of the "Fourth Estate" one of the most important undertakings in the world, and will focus the eyes of the world on Florida. An auditorium to seat 15,000 people, a perfectly equipped hospital, a grand dairy, gardens, conservatories, golf courses, ball parks and other details are already partially worked out.

Major A. E. Barnett of Winter Garden, called to the chair after Mr. Hosmer had accepted the gift for the association, said that this would place Alamo Springs in the ranks of Chautauque, N. Y., Rochester, Minnesota, and the other centers of

ECHOES OF THE CONVENTION

Unusual and Amusing Incidents Recalled.

By E. D. LAMBRIDGE

Home again—after spending the summer at Madison Square Garden.

It was a great bluff and a long one. More long than great.

If it took that long to nominate a candidate, how long will it take to elect him president?

Well, not later than November—if then.

The Florida delegation stuck to the finish without a defection from the diligent doers. Some of us were beginning to get a bit nervous about hotel and laundry bills, but all got off for home without appealing to charity.

To my last day, I will be hearing in quiet moments that monotonous call, "Alabama," followed by the foghorn voice of "Blind Bill" Brandon, shouting "Alabama, twenty-four votes for Oscar Underwood." Brandon did that just the time. The last twenty times he was accompanied by the entire convention.

A close second was the Virginia response for "Charter Glass"—for that's the way the Virginians pronounce it.

It was these "favorite sons" and the stubbornness of their delegations in refusing to break away from them that precluded the convention and defeated McAdoo.

One of the "favorite sons" of course, finally won out, but not one of the others, except Senator Hailston, had a chance—and Hailston wouldn't.

NEW COMMITTEE MEMBERS ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK—The names of the new Democratic national committee members officially recorded today after the initial meeting of the committee included the following:

Alabama—Walter Moore and Mrs. Charles J. Sharp.

Arkansas—Vincent H. Miles and Mrs. James D. Hood.

Florida—J. T. G. Crawford and Lois K. Mayer.

Georgia—John S. Cohen and Mrs. Edgar Alexander.

Louisiana—Lee Emmet Thomas and Genevieve Clark Thompson.

Mississippi—Henry Minor and Mrs. Daisy McLaughlin Stevens.

Missouri—W. T. Kemper and Mrs. Emily Blair.

North Carolina—F. M. Simmons and Miss Mary O. Graham.

South Carolina—John Gary Evans and Mrs. Leroy Springs.

Tennessee—Cordell Hull and Mrs. Benton McMillin.

Texas—Thomas B. Love and Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth.

Virginia—Carter Glass and Mrs. Beverly B. Mumford.

There was but one other possibility, in the view of the progressive Democrats, who constituted a majority of the delegations—and that was E. T. Meredith. But Meredith refused both the first and second places on the ticket.

Florida was strong for Hailston as second choice. He would have received the unanimous vote of the delegation.

Tom Taggart was a bitterly disappointed man when his candidate finally declined. He had made governors, senators, congressmen, mayors, but never a president. This was his one chance—and it failed. Taggart says he is through with national politics.

Mr. Bryan was in a gloomy frame of mind when the last night session convened. Davis had been nominated—and he had fought Davis in every possible manner. After the long list of vice presidential nominations had been made, Mr. Bryan's gloom deepened. Nebraska had passed and his brother had not been placed before the convention.

Then the reverse came, the consultation with Davis. When the delegates began crawling back into their places, Mr. Bryan sat with me in the Florida delegation. These Nebraska delegates pushed their way to his seat and asked him that Governor Bryan had been chosen for second place. Things became much better for the Congressman.

Of course, the Florida delegation was for the Nebraska governor, but we cast six votes in compliment for the beautiful South Carolinian, Mrs. Leroy Springs, who had been our neighbor throughout the long sessions. Before the result was announced, Florida changed to twelve for Bryan.

After the long list of vice presidential nominations had been made, Mr. Bryan's gloom deepened. Nebraska had passed and his brother had not been placed before the convention.

Then the reverse came, the consultation with Davis. When the delegates began crawling back into their places, Mr. Bryan sat with me in the Florida delegation. These Nebraska delegates pushed their way to his seat and asked him that Governor Bryan had been chosen for second place. Things became much better for the Congressman.

Of course, the Florida delegation was for the Nebraska governor, but we cast six votes in compliment for the beautiful South Carolinian, Mrs. Leroy Springs, who had been our neighbor throughout the long sessions. Before the result was announced, Florida changed to twelve for Bryan.

Mr. Bryan was in a gloomy frame of mind when the last night session convened. Davis had been nominated—and he had fought Davis in every possible manner. After the long list of vice presidential nominations had been made, Mr. Bryan's gloom deepened. Nebraska had passed and his brother had not been placed before the convention.

Then the reverse came, the consultation with Davis. When the delegates began crawling back into their places, Mr. Bryan sat with me in the Florida delegation. These Nebraska delegates pushed their way to his seat and asked him that Governor Bryan had been chosen for second place. Things became much better for the Congressman.

Of course, the Florida delegation was for the Nebraska governor, but we cast six votes in compliment for the beautiful South Carolinian, Mrs. Leroy Springs, who had been our neighbor throughout the long sessions. Before the result was announced, Florida changed to twelve for Bryan.

Mr. Bryan presented to each member of the Florida delegation a large photograph of himself autographed "In pleasant memory of the long battle."

Jerry Carter was the "bitter-ender" of the McAdoo army. He asked that his vote be cast for McAdoo for vice president. "I want to stick to the finish," he said. But he capitulated to the charms of the South Carolina lady.

Alvin Owsley's career before the convention was brief. Texas withdrew his name, and voted for Bryan when the stamped came. But Owsley made many friends throughout the convention. He will be heard from later.

Berry was the only avowed second place candidate who had any show of strength. But he, too, was eliminated in the Bryan landslide.

There was a noticeable smoothing of ruffled feathers when the Nebraska was nominated. The progressives generally had been in sulking mood. They felt that they had lost their greatest fight, when they seemed several times to have won. But a progressive and a Westerner on the tail of the ticket made them feel much better.

Less money was spent for Davis than for any other candidate. He had less literature in circulation. He had no campaign manager or organization. Only his faithful friends from West Virginia were booming him. Against his modest offering was the tremendous volume of the McAdoo and Smith campaigns, in active progress for more than a year, with big headquarters, imposing organizations, armies of devoted workers, publicity unlimited, funds apparently likewise. But Davis won.

His speech to the convention revealed a strikingly handsome man of distinguished carriage and air, a clear, resonant voice, who had something to say and said it without bombast or declamatory tricks. His speech made hundreds of those who had voted for him under protest reconciled to their final choice.

Al Smith's speech reminded me of Perry Wall's story about the fellow who "recommended himself most highly." But he could have recited the alphabet and received an ovation. (Continued on Page Eight)

ICE!

The progress of civilization continually adds to the conveniences and labor-saving devices of the home. Not so many years ago when our parents and grandparents wanted to keep their milk, butter, and other foods fresh and sweet it was necessary to store them in damp, musty caves or well houses.

Now, with the aid of artificial ice, you may keep food fresh and sweet in clean, sanitary, convenient refrigerators. It is so economical, too. Left-over dishes remain fresh and wholesome for an indefinite time when kept in the ice-box.

FLORIDA AS A HEALTH STATE

By DR. CHARLES B. McVeer
National Food Specialist, Diet Expert

For numerous reasons the state of Florida exceeds all other states as a health state. I make no qualifications or exceptions. My extensive travels enable me to make this wonderful but truthful statement. It is only the people who have not enjoyed wide travel that are hunting a "better place" in search of health. If they leave the state for this purpose they do so just because they do not know what they are doing.

Moist Climate Healthful

The largest and most important organ of the body is the skin, there being from 16 to 18 square feet of skin surface on the average adult. There are seven million pores, and also three million sweat glands, and also two hundred miles of capillary blood vessels. An active and useful skin is the greatest health asset one can have. The active skin throws off three times the impurities daily that the lungs and kidneys do. Hence the necessity of living in a climate all the time, both winter and summer, when the awful toxins of the human body may be thrown off thus every second of the time. Florida furnishes just such an all year climate.

It is a known fact that people live longer in a moist climate than in a dry one—statistics prove this. It is also well known to students of health facts that the combination of a rather moist atmosphere and a sandy soil enables the human body to retain its magnetism and electricity, while a rather moist climate and a clay soil actually induces these life elements to escape. Despite the careful and scientific dietetic habits of people living in such states as these, they are never entirely well. They never have abundant life and they become easy prey to tuberculosis due to the fact that their very life forces are constantly being abstracted from their bodies.

Same Is Hid

Last year I spent nine months in one of those southern clay-soil black muck states studying health conditions and despite my superior knowledge of how to stay well I was the whole time not up to par and none of the members of my family were well. That state has ideal climate but the combination of the atmosphere and soil condition is all wrong. I must confess I never saw so many lazy people in my life—I got lazy myself. I am through with that state forever, it's Florida for me! I have found health conditions so perfect here in Florida that I have bought a permanent home in the state. While I shall always retain my suite of offices in Chicago owing to its central location, I promise you that it's Florida for me most of the time!

As chairman of the winters of south Florida are, I like the summers even better because both day and night I am, due to atmospheric and soil conditions, eliminating through my skin horrible poisons which if retained in the body would be filling me with "old age" materials—consequently, decrepitude.

The constant ocean and gulf breezes all summer long keep me cool all night long and I awake refreshed and ready for my arduous editorial duties, instead of struggling around worn out all day because I had not slept the night before.

FLASHES OF FLORIDA FACTS

By MOSES FOLSON

Good water is essential to the well-being of all forms of life. See that farm animals, as well as the children, get all they need in the summer.

The big Grandy bridge to bring St. Petersburg and Tampa many miles nearer to each other, will be ready for use about September 1. It is one of the longest bridges in the United States.

According to government bulletin on seed statistics, Florida produces a large part of the watermelon seeds grown for sale in the United States. Of the total of 9,490 acres in ten states last year, Florida had 7,243 acres. The center of this industry is Jefferson county.

The summer is the time to plan for next year's fruit and shrubbery plantings, according to Howard Mowry, horticulturist of the Florida state experiment station. Get in touch with your nearest nurseryman. The late fall and early winter seasons is the proper time to plant.

Reports are to the effect that a new species is now present in many of the citrus groves of Florida. This is an instance of the need of the Florida Plant Board in guarding the vegetation of our state, but enemies get in spite of its efforts due in part to want of cooperation with it on the part of the growers.

The Florida Wood Products Company, whose plant at Norwood, a suburb of Jacksonville, is the largest of its class in the United States. Its buildings and facilities cover thirty acres. It manufactures tar, pitch, creosote, turpentine, oil, etc., from pine timber and stumps. Its brand is "Sunning South," and shipments go to all the leading countries of the world.

Florida can have strawberries in the winter time, besides we can have blackberries, as they grow wild in many parts of the state. Then there is the true blueberry, and mulberries grow here in its best form. The mulberry leaf is the natural food of the silk worm, and in days to come the mulberry tree will be an asset to Florida. The seeds in berries are of value and give the slightly laxative properties which are accounted one of the advantages of berries. More attention should be given to berries in Florida.

While complaint has been made over hot weather during June in Florida, yet the United States weather bureau bulletin for June 21 says: "Readings of 100 degrees to 104 degrees were again reported over western Texas, Oklahoma, and in much of Kansas, while a maximum of 112 degrees was reached in southern Arizona. Abnormally warm weather prevailed also on the 20th and 21st in the Middle and South Atlantic states with maximum temperatures of 100 degrees in South Carolina." When the real facts are known about Florida, it will become a summer resort state. Persons who want to know about Florida weather should address A. J. Mitchell, United States weather observer, Jacksonville.

ST. CLOUD IS "THERE"
AT SILVER LAKE
BOY SCOUT CAMP.

It expresses it mildly to say that the boys are having a good time at Silver Lake Camp near Sanford. The camp is kept in perfect sanitary condition and good health prevails, and only minor scratches and bruises have prevented all the boys participating in the well arranged program which is carried out each day.

Last Thursday the Scouts were treated by a visit from the home folks who gave them a basket picnic and in addition to an interesting and instructive program worked out by the Scouts, John Hamilton, the camp cook has his famous "Divine Jubilee Singers," and many of the old Southern Melodies were enjoyed by the boys and their friends.

The Scouts are now spending five hours each day in preparation for the coming Court of Honor which will be held in the camp council ring this afternoon and evening where each boy may pass ten merit badge tests if he can qualify.

The jurors for this court will probably be selected from the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs of Sanford, which have taken great interest in the Scout movement, for each club has sponsored a Sanford Troop, with the result that greater interest has been taken in the work of building character and training for citizenship.

The Scouts who attended camp the first week with one accord said they had a wonderful time and many who came for one week, have persuaded their folks to allow them to remain the second week.

Last Sunday the Scouts attended Sunday School and church in Sanford, going in a body in autos furnished by big hearted citizens. The camp will close next Saturday at noon, when the Scouts will leave for their homes, better prepared for their work in life.

Boy Scout Notes

One of the most impressive ceremonies ever held at Silver Lake Scout Camp took place Tuesday, July 28th, when the Scouts lowered the flag to half mast out of respect to President Coolidge whose son, Calvin, passed away.

Mr. Callan, of St. Cloud, the Scoutmaster for the camp, conducted the ceremonies.

The Scouts then approved of a set of resolutions to be sent to President and Mrs. Coolidge, as follows:

To President and Mrs. Coolidge,
White House,
Washington, D. C.

Inasmuch as it had pleased Almighty God, Our Heavenly Scoutmaster to remove from the activities of this life, your loving son and a true American Boy, be it

Resolved: That the Scouts of Central Florida Council who are in camp at Silver Lake, extend to you and your bereaved family their heartfelt sympathy and love at this time of your deep bereavement, and may God give you strength to bear your loss, feeling assured that your boy has found

WHEAT IS GOING UP.
EUGENE MYER JR. IN CHARGE.
BEER AND SHIPS.
MORE THAN AIR MAIL SERVICE.

The Department of Agriculture says farmers all lost money on their wheat last year. It cost $1.24 a bushel to grow it. The average price was 50 cents. Unless all signs fail, farmers will get all the wheat sold this year and a good deal more. Many sections of the country producing fewer than 15 bushels of wheat to the acre, with labor and fertilizer costing what they do, it is hard to see how wheat can pay, even at $1.24. The Republican plan is to force the price to $1.50. How many voters would that be worth?

If farmers have any wheat unsold from the last crop—they usually have none when the price goes up—let them hang on to it. And if they are wise they will hold for high prices the wheat now being threshed. When the really big people want wheat to go up, as they do now, it goes up. They have the power to make it go. It is not like one individual, professional wheat gambler, or little pool, trying to fight the waves of the "short side."

Other grains, corn especially, and cotton and stocks, will travel upward with the wheat. What Republican victory, BIG VICTORY, demands is a prosperity boom. You'll have it.

Readers may remember that this winter, when cotton was below 25, announced that it would travel up to 55. It did, moving steadily and higher than 55. What the big fellows want really happens.

Eugene Myer, Jr., able young citizen of many millions, is in charge of the plan to put up the prices of wheat and of other farm products to make farmers happy, and enable the Government to lend them more money.

DON'T GAMBLE, HOWEVER. It is virtuous to pray that farmers may have better times and better prices. It's foolish to gamble on it. No little man is smart enough or quick enough to survive in that game.

If you happen to be in contact with Eugene Myer, Jr., who is now traveling through the West, you might get valuable information. It is said he intends to put the average value of cattle up $10 a head. That would help some.

A time is coming when lack of American-owned ships will cost us more billions than that same lack cost in the last war.

The various brands of beer, religion, foreign entanglements, etc., all have their importance.

But none is as important as the safety of the country. And that depends on ships. ON the water for carrying goods and troops. ABOVE the water and UNDER the water, for fighting.

A little while ago we were begging England to make room for our soldiers in her ships, and paying English shipping companies, first cabin rates for less than steerage accommodation for American soldiers sent over to help England and France.

But all that seems to be forgotten. Dr. E. Lyman Fisk, scientific authority, says "Alcohol is a liability." Tests prove that "moderate drinkers do not live longer than total abstainers." That's interesting and important.

However, those on the other side of the fence say "More LENGTH of life is not the important thing. It doesn't matter so much how LONG you live, as how EFFICIENTLY you live."

The younger Pitt, for instance, undoubtedly drank himself to death. But while he lived he kept Napoleon Bonaparte out of England. And that was more important to Englishmen than having him live to be one hundred and fifty would have been.

Again, it may be said that if he had drunk only water, he might have been twice as good a Prime Minister in addition to being to be a hundred.

About these things we, as yet, know nothing.

While you are sleeping, fliers for the post office are crossing the continent, guided by "light patches" blazing with lights of many million candle power. Eventually, of course, that lighting will be cheap. It is only a question of power, of borrowing from the sun in the daytime enough energy to duplicate sunlight feebly at night.

Postmaster General New is to be congratulated on his excellent work in developing the aerial mail delivery. What he does for a greater mail delivery, while most important, of far less value than his admirable work in developing the American flying machine and American fliers.

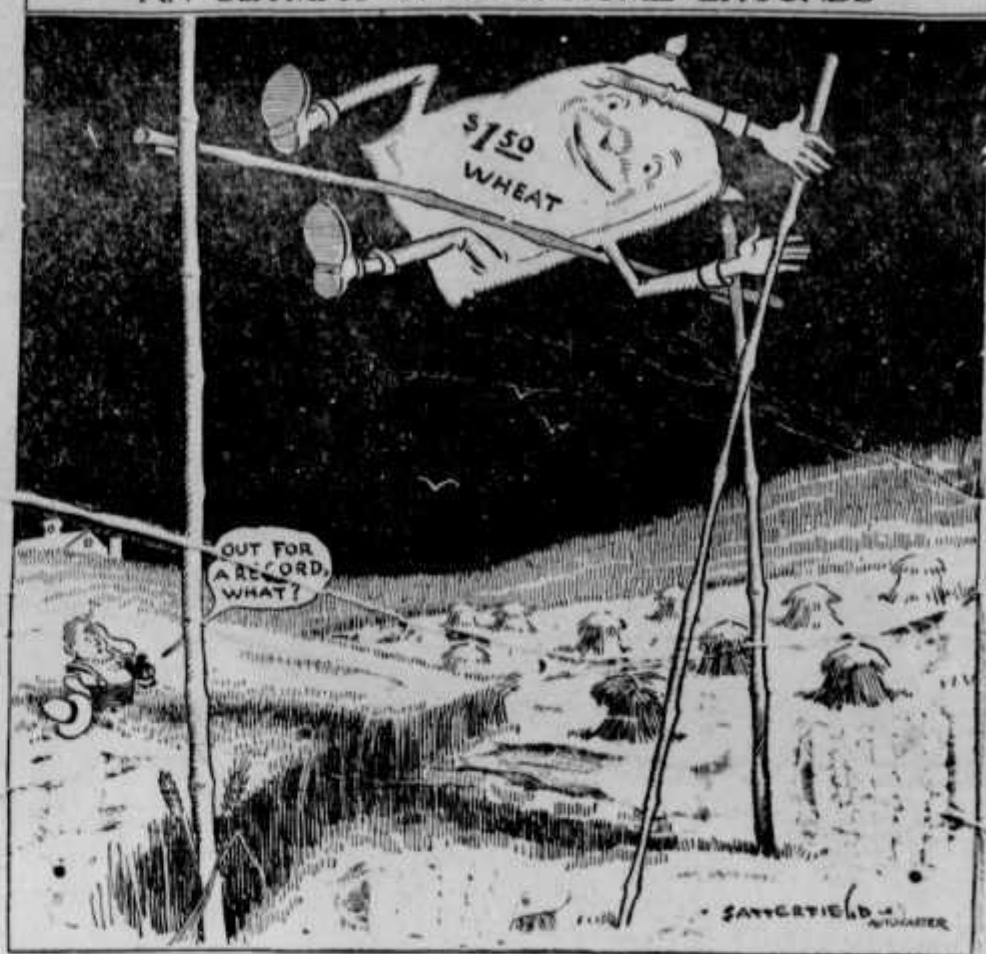

That the camp flag will be lowered to half mast during the remainder of the time in camp. That a copy of these resolutions will be placed upon the records of this camp, and also sent to all the papers in the Central Florida Council Territory.

AN OLYMPIC ON OUR HOME GROUNDS

RADIO HINTS

Can I use a variable condenser to tune the primary of the remodeled coupler, is often asked. The answer is, yes, but it is not necessary. If a variable condenser is used in series with the aerial, just add ten turns to the primary.

Two dry cells will not work better with a WD-12 tube, but they will have a longer life if they are connected in parallel.

Before mounting radio parts on a baseboard, sandpaper the rough spots down and give it a few thin coats of shellac or varnish. This will prevent the board from absorbing moisture and causing short circuits where bus wire rests on the board.

"A" batteries deteriorate quickly in summer because of heat and humidity. Two dry cells in parallel will last more than twice as long as one dry cell on the same load, because the efficiency of these cells remains higher on the lower current consumption. It is economical, therefore, to use a double bank of batteries connected to a dry cell tube.

The capacity of a phone condenser is usually .001 or .002, while a fixed condenser which is to be shunted across the terminals of a loud speaker is .005 or .006.

An "A" battery switch will eliminate the necessity of turning the rheostat off when through using the set.

If your one knob set refuses to oscillate, try reversing the leads from the secondary to the grid and filament.

THE CHURCH AND THE KINGDOM

(Paper read before the Wethwa Ministerial Association at Orlando by Rev. B. Nicholson.)

My subject this morning is "The Church and the Kingdom," not that it is my desire or purpose to prepare an exhaustive treatise upon these themes but rather putting it in the form of a question—Is there any real difference between the Church of Jesus Christ, the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Heaven?

In conversation, and often in our preaching as well as our prayers these phrases are used as though they were synonymous terms.

The importance of this paper is suggested by the Apostle Paul in 2 Tim. 2: 15 "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

It is utterly impossible to understand some parts of the Bible without some knowledge of dispensational truth and how to apply it.

The whole Bible should be preached to the whole world but we must remember there are parts of the Bible that cannot be applied to all people and during all dispensations regardless of its primary application.

Much confusion has arisen among the people of God by not making any distinction between Israel and the Church, the Church and the Kingdom, the throne of David and the throne of God the Father, the Kingdom of Heaven and the Kingdom of God. Do we not often find at the head of some chapter in Isaiah something like this—"The Glory of the church, the blessings of the Gospel or the victory of the Church over her enemies" and yet at the same time the Apostle Paul reveals the fact that the Church was not once mentioned or revealed in the Old Testament Scriptures.

The doctrine of Infant Baptism, with all its far reaching influence for evil would never have been received by the Church if the Word of God had been rightly divided, and a clear distinction made between Israel and the Church, and the old and new covenants.

In order to clearly distinguish between the Kingdom and the Church, a brief outline of each as revealed in the Scriptures will be necessary.

The true Church of Jesus Christ, the Family of God, or as it is called in Paul's epistles, "the body of Christ" is an elect body, and includes every saved person from the day of Pentecost until the time of the Rapture. Only those that are truly saved and regenerated by the Holy Spirit during this present dispensation are members of the Body of Christ.

In this paper I am not referring to the local Church or what constitutes a local New Testament Church as an organization, with a great mission to evangelize the world but rather the Church in general, the Body of Christ, in contrast with Israel, the Kingdom of Heaven or even the Kingdom of God.

A mere glance at the Scripture will reveal the fact that more than one half of the entire Bible has to do with one nation (Israel). The idea of a kingdom here upon earth, seems to have been in the mind of God from the very beginning and also a part of the divine program to be fulfilled in after years; as suggested by the words of Jesus in Matt. 25 "Come ye blessed of my father and inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world," while concerning the Church it is written "He hath chosen us in him BEFORE the foundation of the world."

When God created Adam and placed him in the garden, he was given power and dominion over all the earth, but through the fall this power and dominion was surrendered to Satan who became, and is still called the god of this world and prince of the power of the air. Jesus Christ the second Adam came into the world to save that which was lost to redeem the forfeited possession and in due time according to promise will bring about the restitution of all things spoken by the Old Testament prophets.

The doctrine of the Kingdom as unfolded by the Scriptures is briefly as follows:—It was promised to Abraham and his seed by covenant, organized later at Mt. Sinai where the law was given; established in Canaan as a Theocracy during the period of the Judges, afterward as an absolute monarchy under the reign of Saul, David and Solomon; then as a divided monarchy under Jehoshaphat and finally both divisions were carried off into captivity and the Kingdom overthrown. There was a partial restoration of the Kingdom under Ezra and Nehemiah and the Old Testament closes with a promise of a future and complete restoration of the Kingdom to Israel.

The New Testament opens with this promise in view, and the great theme of the first Gospel is—"The Kingdom of Heaven, with Jesus as the legal heir of the throne of his father David."

John, the forerunner of the Messiah, proclaimed the fact that the Kingdom of Heaven was at hand; in the sermon on the Mount we have the laws of the Kingdom, the twelve and the seventy were commissioned to preach (not the Gospel of the Grace of God) but the Gospel of the Kingdom with the promise that certain signs should follow. They were to heal the sick, cast out demons, etc., all of which were predicted to accompany the setting up of the Messianic Kingdom. If this fact were only remembered and we would rightly divide God's word concerning the Gospel of the Kingdom and the Gospel of the Grace of God, there would not be so many deceived by so much modern teaching along the line of "Divine healing" so called.

In the thirtieth chapter of Isaiah we learn that when the Messiah comes and his Kingdom is established upon earth, THEN the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped, then shall the lame leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing, etc. This is all Kingdom truth and these signs follow the preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom.

Jesus knew that the people would not receive him as their King there-

Poem
by Uncle John

The things that "grow on a feller" ain't always an object of dread... unless it's tobacco or whiskey—or somethin' that flies to his head. It could be—a passel of whiskers—a covey of wrinkles or warts, for the things that grow on a feller must be reckoned as different sorts. . . . But—when it's the habit of savin', or the eatin' of regular meals, or—of takin' one's breakfast at sun-up, no matter how lazy he feels! It could be a hunger for readin' or solvin' the problems of life, like raisin' the boys as they should be, or of gettin' along with the wife. . . . It might as well be somethin' noble as somethin' disruptive and bad, for the things that can grow on a feller should render him tranquil and glad! In the capable way of selectin' it's risky to judge with a whiz—for, the idea that grows on a feller, will make him the man that he is.

fore in the thirteenth chapter of Matt., he reveals something new in the divine program, what he is pleased to call the "Mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven." The seven parables of the Kingdom reveal its character, growth and how established in its present form in the absence of the King.

In due time Jesus presented himself as King in fulfillment of all the Old Testament prophecies but as we know was rejected and crucified, the Messianic Kingdom is therefore held in abeyance until the King returns.

After the resurrection, the disciples asked the question, "With thou at this time restore the Kingdom to Israel?" Jesus did not rebuke, nor endeavor to correct them for asking an improper question but simply reminded them that it was not for them to know the times nor the seasons, that the Father hath put in His own power. Jesus is now reigning on the Father's throne and not yet on the throne of his father David which has been promised him. We still pray, "thy Kingdom come" as something yet future, and in Matt. 25 and Rev. 19, we see the King returning and His Kingdom established in judgment. Then shall the knowledge of (Continued on Page Six)

BIG BIRTHDAY BOOM AT BAILEY'S

Monday, July 14, friends of Comrade Weston Bailey gathered at his home to celebrate his 90th birthday. His wife, children, and grandchildren were there and 75 adults, besides lots of little folks.

Comrades Raymond, Clark, and Severn made good music, and were not slugs as to the number of tunes played—and they do play.

Songs, talks, music, and a general good time was continuous. The 90-year old boy danced to one of the lively tunes, without the least loss of step; at the end of it seeming ready for another quick-step.

The birthday was Sabbath, the 13th, but, with reverence for the LORD'S Day, he made Monday the day of jubilation.

Past Department Commander Bullard's natal day was the same as Bailey's; but the latter boasts by a decade, the Bullard is trying hard to catch up to the nonconformist. Both of the comrades' demeanor is such as might indicate that the right of franchise would be utilized by them for the first time next November. Between 3 and 4 p. m. "Nurses" Williams engineered a big feast. Say! Good people! If you ever wish an extra fine eat well served, get "Nurses" for a caterer. If all the good eats were enumerated here, the Tribune editor would refuse to print this item, or else cut out his advertisements.

Then there were a lot of well-put short talks: Department Commander Campbell led with one just suited, and—well, he did his duty in a way commensurate with the happy occasion. Comrade Bullard, in his usual good style, read a poem that, judging by its excellence, must have emanated from his ready mind; finishing with remarks all comrades love to hear, and which were especially applicable to the host. Post Commander McPherson was heard with pleasure, for all who know him are glad to be in hearing when he speaks.

Rev. Hyndman, the new minister of the M. E. Church, did his stunt. The people there realized that excellent sermons are not his only forte. Among other things well-said he remarked that he intended to remain in St. Cloud 'till he learned how to grow old gracefully; for the host, and many others whom he had met here, had established a lovely precedent he wished to emulate.

Others present said just the right things: Comrade Bailey responded like a twenty-year-old. Kenney wanted us to tell about the good things at the feast: food, fruit, melons, ice cream, cool drinks, etc.; but we only say the spread couldn't be beaten, was heartily eaten by all at the meeting.

After heartfelt wishes for long life, health and happiness for Comrade Bailey and his folks, the party sang: "God be with you 'till we meet again; then departed, full and friendly; some of them wishing Comrade Bailey's birthday came once a week.

MICHIGANDERS' PICNIC

A jolly bunch of Michiganders met at the home of Mrs. F. R. Riley on Thursday, July tenth, for a picnic and to help Mrs. Riley in celebrating her 81st birthday. Many friends called who could not stay to the picnic, and Mrs. Esther Daniels sent a fine bouquet, the handsomest one I ever saw of entirely home grown flowers. The combined ages of the seven oldest persons that were there was 500 years and none of them had reached 100 years of age. After partaking of a sumptuous dinner the time was occupied with stories of the Civil War, and some matters of business. A storm seemed quite threatening and some left for their homes, others staid till the rain was over. All joined in wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day.

One Who Was There.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Ebner John Spaulding celebrated his 90th birthday Saturday, July 12th at the home of Mrs. A. Conklin where he makes his home.

He received many nice gifts, and a shower of cards from all over the country. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, conspicuous among them being a large red, white and blue center-piece for the table.

Mrs. Conklin, who is an ideal hostess served refreshments to all friends calling during the day and evening.

Among those who called to pay their respects and wish him many happy returns of the day were: Rev. Wm. Westover, Mrs. J. Miller, Mrs. Dorothy Jaques, Mrs. B. G. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Todd, Mrs. Margaret Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Severn, Mr. R. Severn and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. J. ## Interesting Reminiscences of the Pioneer Days of Osceola County

(Reprint of Orlando Sentinel Article of June 16, 1908.)

The South Florida Sentinel of last week contained an excellent article on the pioneer days of Osceola county, of which this section of Osceola then formed a part. The article, while not signed, we suspect was written by Mr. Mahlon Gore, and contains many incidents which will be of interest to our older citizens, who are familiar with the conditions existing in this section at that time. Lack of space forbids us printing the article in full, but we excerpt the following interesting extracts, together with the cut of Jacob Summerlin, which was kindly loaned us by the Sentinel.

Editor's Note: Mahlon Gore, referred to as being the author of the article copied from the Orlando Sentinel, of June 16, 1908, died a few years ago at Orlando. The Summerlin House in Orlando has passed into history. Few of Orlando's folks today know that it ever existed. The old Sanford House at Sanford, then in Orange county, has passed into history since the Tribune editor now in charge has been on the job, to the delight of the traveling public, and has been replaced by an elaborate modern hotel. Jacob Summerlin is still fresh in the minds of the cattle men of Osceola county because of his sons and grandsons having followed the same business. One of his ancestors has been prominent in the Florida Cattle Men's Association in the past few years.

The report of the rainstorm and Boone's hardluck might be verified by old timers of Orlando, but the old reminder of Boone in what is now Osceola was the Boone cigar factory operated for years at Kissimmee.

Haselinger, referred to is now a part of Oklawaha county, having been taken off Osceola county to form the new county in 1917.

In the edition of the Kissimmee publication in which the above story was reprinted in 1908, the advertisers were few and far between. The editor of the Tribune happens to know most of them. Those who were still here fourteen years ago.

Charles W. Dunn, then a merchant in Kissimmee was at last reported, operating a job printing office in Miami.

Hoyd C. Dunn, who was then announced as a candidate for member of the State Railroad Commission, is still on the job as railroad commissioner.

W. R. Mahlon, is the only real merchant advertising in Kissimmee that long ago who is still on the job. Spring Fleming, a colored tailor and clothes presser is still there.

The two inside pages of the Kissimmee paper were "laid out" in other words, were printed in Atlanta, and contained general news and patent medicine ads. These two pages of that issue announced that Yaff and Sherman had been nominated for the positions of President and Vice-President of the United States.

The whole paper failed to say who was editor or publisher at that time, but we have been more local reports that W. R. Harris was publisher and P. A. VanAlstyne of Winter Park (now) were the owners and editors-publisher of the Kissimmee paper.

The Grapewine Garage and Machine Shop, operated by Anthony Lodi at Kissimmee in those days has long ago passed into history.

The Waters-Carson Grocery Co. has in recent years passed into history through bankruptcy. (Carson was the last of the firm to die.)

C. W. Griffin, who was that long ago a groceryman in Kissimmee, is now living in retirement in Kissimmee, after serving the county as registration officer for some time. He sold out to F. C. Bryan, who now conducts a modern grocery.

Mark Bros., who in the old days, ran a livery stable, now operate a modern automobile supply house and garage on the site of the old livery stable.

The Kissimmee Lumber Co. passed into history along with some other of the old Carson interests.

The old Kissimmee Drive Co., Dr. A. B. Jarrell, mfg., passed into history several years ago.

G. P. Kribbs, attorney-at-law, is still on the job, in the firm of Kribbs & Street. Street is the young member of the firm.

Dr. J. W. Simpson, dentist, is now located in Orlando.

W. L. Winn, physician and surgeon, left St. Cloud for parts unknown about two years ago.

P. A. Vans Agnew, who was in those days the leading lawyer of Osceola county, has established offices in Winter Park. He was then also editor of the Kissimmee paper.

J. M. Wilson, Jr., who was years ago chartered as a real estate dealer in Kissimmee, is still on the job in Kissimmee.

W. L. VanDuzer, real estate, has passed into history.

J. H. Reddit, then classed as Kissimmee's Jeweler, is still in Kissimmee and in the same business.

Hobbsen's Pharmacy, then the leader in Kissimmee, is still listed among the substantial business firms of that city.

got 98 votes from this county as delegate to the democratic convention from the second district (of which Osceola county was then a part.) but now the fourth district.

Albert W. Overstreet carried this county for governor.

E. L. D. Overstreet beat J. T. Reeves for county commissioner from District No. 2 and J. K. Stratton beat W. H. Mann from District No. 3.

From the earliest settlement of Orlando until his death, perhaps no man was better known in this section, or in all South Florida, than Jacob Summerlin. He built the Summerlin House in Orlando has passed into history.

THE CHURCH AND THE KINGDOM

The Lord covers the earth as the waters cover the sea, then shall He reign and rule with a rod of iron. No man shall say in that day, know thou the Lord, for all men shall know Him from the least to the greatest. But some may say, is not this Kingdom a spiritual Kingdom? May not the prophecies concerning it have been fulfilled from a spiritual point of view, in the coming of the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost and the proclamation of the Gospel during this dispensation.

A careful comparison of the passages of the Bible concerning the Kingdom with those about the Church will settle the question. In the first place different words are used in the original as well as the King James version, and when we consider the origin, mission, character and termination of the Church in contrast with the Kingdom, we see that the phrase, "the Kingdom of God," Kingdom of Heaven, and the Church of Jesus Christ, instead of being synonymous terms have but very little in common.

The phrase "the Kingdom of Heaven," occurs 32 times in the Gospel of Matt. but not in a single case can it be applied to the Church of Jesus Christ.

The Kingdom of Heaven is the subject of prophecy and connected with the children of Abraham and the throne of David but the Church is never once mentioned in Old Testament prophecies but is spiritual in character and birth and heavenly in its calling.

The Kingdom is governed by law while the Church is governed by Grace. Under the Kingdom, blessing is conditioned upon character and obedience; while under Grace in the Church of Jesus Christ, the principle is reversed. We love Him because He first loved us; our character and obedience are the natural outgrowth of God's Grace.

Under the Law and the Kingdom, except a man forgive first, he cannot be forgiven; under Grace in the Church we are exhorted to forgive one another even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven us.

The Kingdom of Heaven relates to one nation (Israel) in the Church there is no difference between the Jew and Gentile. In the Kingdom of Heaven the rewards offered are of a temporal nature such as prosperity, health, and victory over their enemies. In the Church the rewards are mainly in the future, and spiritual in character.

"It is given unto us not only to believe but to suffer and the promise of the Gospel so far as this world is concerned is tribulation, affliction, persecution, etc.; but if we suffer with him we will also reign with him. David could say, 'I have never seen the righteous forsaken nor his seed begging bread.' What confusion has come by trying to apply this principle literally to this present dispensation. The relationship in the Kingdom of Heaven is that of blood, (the natural descendants of Abraham) and founded upon the covenant.

The relationship in the Church is spiritual and based upon the new birth. The Kingdom of Heaven is set up when Christ comes and not before. It is established by judgment; the Church is a company of believers, called out from the world by the preaching of the Gospel and the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit.

The Kingdom will remain here upon earth but the Church will be taken away before Jesus comes; The Kingdom will be established when Jesus comes back to the earth. The Church of Jesus Christ was established when the Holy Spirit came down to the earth on the day of Pentecost.

There is also a difference between the Kingdom of Heaven and the Kingdom of God but here the distinction is not quite so clear and there are some things that both have in common nevertheless there is a real difference.

The Kingdom of God is mentioned 70 times in the New Testament and never once refers to the Church. The Kingdom of God is spiritual and universal, referring to the rule of God over the entire universe; the kingdom of Heaven is temporal, visible and pertaining to this earth only.

The Kingdom of God is the greater and includes all that is real in the Kingdom of Heaven. Jesus said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

He said in John 3:3 "Except a man is born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

God," this is not true of the "Kingdom of Heaven" especially in its present mystery form, for while the King is absent the wheat and the tares grow side by side, and these are permitted to remain until the King returns. There are no tares, goats, or mere professors in the Kingdom of God, flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God, but the Kingdom of Heaven (in its present form) is inhabited only by flesh and blood, and yet there are some things that both have in common as might be said of the United States and the state of Florida. We all have the same President, constitution, supreme court, same language but all citizens of the U. S. are not citizens of the state of Florida. There are also living in Florida some aliens, foreigners that enjoy our blessings and yet are not citizens of the U. S. (Just as we have tares as well as wheat in the Kingdom of Heaven.)

If this distinction between the Church and the Kingdom were recognized by all, the false pretensions of Rome would collapse, for it was in relation to the earthly Messianic Kingdom that the Lord conferred upon Peter the power of the keys. To talk of the keys of the Kingdom of God is absurd, more foolish still does it seem to the intelligent Christian to talk of the keys of the Church (which is the body of Christ) but Rome though claiming to be the inspired keeper of the truth is ignorant of these distinctions.

In the first Church conference held in Jerusalem, recorded in Act. 15, we have some very important information concerning the Divine plan and program for this age. "Simon hath declared, how that God did at the first visit the Gentiles (for what purpose) not to convert the world by the preaching of the Gospel, but to take out of them a people (the Church) after this. I will return and build again the tabernacle of David (Kingdom) which is fallen down." Here is God's method and time for establishing the Kingdom, after the Church is complete and Christ comes in Judgment. You will notice that the Kingdom will then be established by Christ himself and not by man. In Rom. 11, we read, "For I would not, brethren that ye should be wise in your own conceits, that blindness, in part is happened to Israel until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in, and so all Israel shall be saved." Then and not until then will it be true that the wilderness will blossom as a rose, and the lion and the lamb lie down together; and not until then will the great national problems of this old world ever be solved.

Dr. C. I. Scofield once said, "It may safely be said, that the judging of the Church has done more to him."

and destroy her spiritualty that all other causes combined. Instead of pursuing her appointed path of separation, persecution, world hatred, poverty, and non-resistance, she has used Jewish scriptures to justify her in lowering her purpose to the civilization of the world, the acquisition of wealth, the use of an imposing ritual, the erection of magnificent churches, the invocation of God's blessing upon the conflicts of armies, and the division of an equal brotherhood into clergy and laity.

Only this week I was confronted with this question after speaking of the believer's security in Christ, but said my friend, "Do we not read in the Bible that he that endureth unto the end shall be saved?" I replied yes, in the 24th chapter of Matt. She thought that settled it and wondered how anybody could be sure of their final salvation in the light of such clear words as these. She could hardly believe that I was speaking the truth when I said that this passage had nothing to do with the church and our soul's salvation but rather applied to Israel during the time of the great Tribulation and just before the coming of the King as anyone can see by reading the context. Many are still applying this verse to the Church during this Gospel dispensation and at the same time singing Saved by

HELP THE OLD FOLKS

A Helping Hand Extended to Many Old People in St. Cloud. The infirmities of age are many. Most old people have a bad back. The kidneys are often weak. Or worn out with years of work. Backache means days of misery. Urinary troubles, nights of unrest. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped to make life easier for many. They are doing so for old and young.

St. Cloud people are learning this. Read the following local endorsement.

Mrs. L. Zeller, Massachusetts ave., says: "I was ailing with lame back and kidney complaint. There was a heavy, bearing-down pain in my back and it felt like a weight tied to me. I felt tired and languid and was hardly able to get about. My kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Pills and they cured me of the attack."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Zeller had. Foster-McIlhenny Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

First Estimate of "Invisible Exchange"

RESULTS of the first attempt of the Department of Commerce to make a careful estimate of the volume of so-called invisible exchange have been announced by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The figures indicate that instead of foreign countries owing the United States $754,000,000, representing the excess of exports over imports for the year 1922, various items of invisible exchange reduce the amount to $329,000,000.

The detailed estimates relate to the year 1922, since which the balance of trade has turned against the United States. Commenting on the different situation existing in 1923, Mr. Hoover says there has been a continued movement against the United States in the current items of invisible exchange as well as on merchandise account and that there has been much less movement in the export of capital.

Mr. Hoover explains the phenomenon of continued large importations of gold despite the adverse balance of trade by suggesting it may be due to the fact that there has been a large export of our currency which is being held and used abroad and that there are some evidences that European countries have increased their open balances in the United States and their investments in American securities.

Having for the first time attempted to trace down the items of invisible exchange, Mr. Hoover announces that it is proposed to do so annually hereafter and that through the co-operation of banks and merchants comprehensive estimates will be made for the year 1923 as soon as the year comes to an end.

ECHOES OF THE CONVENTION

at any time in that convention. The galleries were always full of his friends.

Governor Smith is a hero throughout New York city. He is the idol of every New Yorker, from the boot-black to the plutocrat. His courage and going to the platform at the Manhattan Club, just across the street from the Garden, to his hotel, were attended by the pomp and circumstance of royalty. A demon mounted policeman formed his guard and lined up before the club just before he emerged. And hundreds in the street cheered his every appearance. This popular acclaim is due partly to the fact that he has made an excellent governor, but largely to the fact that he is to everybody just "AL."

Mr. McAdoo made a warm friend and admirer of every delegate who met him for the first time. His cordial, genial manner impressed all. That's why so many of his supporters took his defeat as a personal blow. His heart-to-heart friendly talks to those of us who were privileged to meet at his daily conferences were those of a real American to whom the triumph of progressive principles means much more than personal ambition. At the last conference in his room at the Vanderbilt, when the realization was growing that his fight had failed, there was genuine sadness.

A half hour before his better-releasing his delegates was read, Mr. Bryan came to the Florida delegation and said: "Lambright, we have reached the end of the trial. McAdoo is through."

We felt genuinely sympathetic for Mrs. McAdoo who sat faithfully through the fatiguing sessions, watching her husband's fortunes rise and fall. But she was game to the end and stayed to cheer for the winner.

Miss Margaret Wilson's presence with us was appreciated. The New York World, with its accustomed accuracy, said that Miss Wilson refused to call the votes of the Florida delegation other than those for McAdoo. The fact is that she was perfectly willing to call them all, but the suggestion that she give the McAdoo vote while the chairman finished the announcement came from the chairman, not from her. She is a gracious, charming woman, with no narrowness or bitterness in her make-up.

Will Rogers brought frequent joy to the Florida delegation. He became a devoted admirer of Mrs. Springs and spent much time in our immediate vicinity. When the names of vice presidential candidates were being announced, Will took a hurried departure. "They might pick on me," he chuckled as he followed his way out.

Glady's Baker, the charming society editor of the Jacksonville Journal, wrote something about Mr. Brisbane wearing suspenders and got a nice letter from Brisbane. Miss Glady's by the way, was a bright light in the Florida contingent. She was pronounced queen of the press gang by newspaper men generally. John Perry became appreciative that I was trying to capture her for the Tribune and wired Colonel Stuyall to call me off—in facetious vein, of course. I didn't know until I reached home that Miss Baker was born in Brunswick and that her father was one of my old boyhood friends there. This makes me all the more proud of Brunswick.

Ruth Rich of the Times-Union, and Ruby Leach of the Miami Herald, were other Florida newspaper women in and about the Garden. Both did good work for their papers and made many friends.

Jack Worthington was as busy as anybody between being a delegate and sending staff to the Tampa Times and other papers. Jack's cute monstache was one of the distinctive features of the delegation.

General Gilchrist never misses an opportunity to advertise Florida. When the motion was made to move the convention to Kansas City, he mounted his chair, got the ear of the chairman and moved to substitute Punta Gorda. Seven reporters made a rush for the Florida seats to find out what and where is Punta Gorda. And they were told.

Colonel Appleyard was for Halston from the first, but didn't vote him until after Bowden had made the first break in the delegation. Afterwards he went to Davis and was the first man in the delegation to vote for the winner.

John Cooper of Jacksonville, the efficient vice-chairman of the delegation, was of invaluable assistance in keeping the delegation in line for the successive roll calls. He also made the presentation of Florida's case when the Bowden break came and was the only member of the delegation, except Gilchrist, to talk into the amplifiers.

Bryan Mack was one of the editors of "The Florida Cracker," the bright daily paper which John Perry's organization got out during the first week of the convention. Mack was one of the strongest McAdoo men. His one weakness was being in some other part of the hall when the roll call came. But we know well who he would vote.

Jerry Carter was also a "rambler." He was a most conspicuous delegate from Florida. He wore a white suit, a big Florida pantalon which covered nearly all of his manly front, a huge McAdoo button and several smaller ones. Most of the time, he carried a megaphone. He soon became a familiar figure to every delegate in the great Garden.

Mrs. W. R. Dorman, our attractive lady delegate, stuck to the last. She was one of the three who voted for McAdoo for three ballots after he had withdrawn. She was faithful in attendance and passed up the attractions of the theaters, shops and other New York institutions to be in her seat with the delegation. Her presence gave "class" to our bunch. All of us were glad that Mr. Dorman, estimable citizen though he is, was unable to come and sent his wife instead.

Fred Cone, the genial West Florida "Cracker," was among the staunchest of the McAdoo supporters. Fred couldn't conceive of any one else being nominated. His attractive daughter, Miss Jessie who was his alternate, achieved the distinction of being photographed with Mr. Bryan, after she had announced Florida's vote on one of the roll calls.

Harry Roberts got more publicity than any member of the delegation. He was featured in the press for his nomination of Enright at the Majestic dinner and became a notable figure in and about the convention. Harry has hosts of influential friends in New York and he was besieged with attractive invitations to parties, yacht trips, and other diversions, but Harry is "true blue." He had planned to come home ten days ago, but refused to desert me and leave me to the more or less tender mercies of other alternates. Harry now talks in his sleep about roll calls, candidates and hot dogs.

Forrest Lake was the dresser of the Florida bunch. He always appeared at evening sessions in Tuxedo and trimmings.

Secretary of State Crawford shot the chutes at Coney Island with the eagerness and abandon of a schoolboy.

Paul Carter, of Marriana, was the heaviest Florida—and one of the best. Big, good-natured always optimistic he kept saying "Today will end it." One day he got discouraged and watched the convention from his hotel room window which overlooked the garden.

It was a wonderful experience, although a fatiguing one. It is worth remembering and telling children and grand children about.

But it was not a vacation or a pleasure trip. In nearly three weeks in New York I saw two shows and one ball game. But I wouldn't have missed it. There has never been such a convention—there will never be another like it.

HOTEL AND COMMERCIAL BUILDING TO BE ERRECTED IN ORLANDO, FLA.

The G. L. Miller Bond & Mortgage Company of Miami, Fla., have underwritten an issue of $5,000,000 bonds to finance the construction of the Station Hotel and Commercial Building at Orlando, Fla.

A $100,000 first mortgage real estate $5,000,000 bond issue is secured by a direct closed first mortgage on the land, building and equipment valued at $250,000.

The owner and builder of the Station Hotel and Commercial Building is the E. G. Staton Company of Orlando. Mr. E. G. Staton, the President of the E. G. Staton Company, personally guarantees the payment of this bond issue. Mr. Staton has long been identified with commercial activities in Orlando. He was the organizer and first president of the Orange Trust Co. of that city.

The building is to be located at the corner of North Orange and Amelia Avenues, an ideal site for a structure of this kind.

The Station Hotel and Commercial Building will be a modern, three-story brick structure of reinforced concrete construction, with tile and brick curtain walls. It will contain sixty rooms modern in their appointments and conveniences, and seven commercial shops. The building has been designed by Harry S. King, architect of Orlando.

A survey of the hotel facilities of Orlando indicates that there is a demand for a structure such as the Station Hotel and Commercial Building.

The G. L. Miller Bond & Mortgage Co., Florida's oldest first mortgage bond houses, who are financing the Station Hotel and Commercial Building, also financed the Central Properties Commercial Building and the Orange Court Apartment Hotel in Orlando.
